Comrades and Friends

I am honoured to present to this House, the fifth and final budget of this administration as well as our Medium-Term projections for the next three years.

Let me begin with tabling the following documents for consideration:

- The Appropriation Bill for 2019
- The Explanatory Memorandum to the Bill
- Estimates of Provincial Revenue and Expenditure
- Estimates of Capital Expenditure
- The Socio-Economic Review Outlook and
- A copy of my Speech

Honourable members throughout this term, Gauteng residents have advised us each year on where we should deploy our resources.

True to the Gauteng Spirit, this year more than 150 000 residents participated in our on-line campaign #GPBudget2019. We received more than 1800 written submissions. We had guidance on where we should spend money, how we should save precious resources and ways to grow our economy and our province.

Top of the agenda is the call for Provincial Government to invest in education and do more to equip young people for the workplace with the skills they need now and in the future.

Seven out of ten contributors mentioned the importance of supporting small enterprises and township entrepreneurs to create work opportunities. There was a loud call for government to invest more in renovating industrial parks and regulating illegal businesses.

Many stressed the importance of using government's procurement muscle to provide market access for emerging enterprises in areas like infrastructure construction and maintenance.

A strong call was made for government to make it easier for SMMEs to understand what support is available and how it can be accessed.

Many asked that more be invested in employing doctors and nurses in hospitals and clinics so that the quality of service improves, and health practitioners treat patients with dignity and care.

Some of our residents asked that more be spent on improving road infrastructure, repairing potholes and building our public transport system.

Others complained about environmental conditions in the province and demanded more be done about littering and illegal dumping.

There was widespread condemnation of wasteful expenditure, and support for greater transparency and accountability in government contracts and tenders.

Public servants who are arrogant, self-serving, dishonest, corrupt and incompetent came in for the harshest criticism.

Honourable members, the 2019 Gauteng Budget I table for your consideration today, does its utmost to respond to this important counsel.

It sets out how this provincial government funds our commitment to transforming and growing our province and our support for small businesses and township enterprises.

It highlights our significant progress in improving education outcomes and supporting young people to get the skills they need now, and in the future.

It shows how, through investing in economic and social infrastructure, we are improving the conditions of life for all our residents.

It speaks to our work in building social cohesion in our diverse province, so we secure a future for all our people.

We explain that here in Gauteng, we have built our financial management capacity to root out waste and ensure hard-earned taxes are spent directly on providing quality infrastructure and services.

This budget also addresses the measures this administration takes to keep pace with service needs in a context of tight budgets at national level.

We can proudly say Honourable Members, that the 2019 Budget I table for your consideration today is indeed a Gauteng People's Budget.

When Minister Tito Mboweni delivered his Budget Speech in the National Assembly on the 20 February, he indicated that our economy is recovering slowly but steadily from the technical recession.

Restrained growth means lower than expected revenue collection. Because government is committed to ensuring sustainable finances, we must all help contain the budget deficit and stabilize public debt.

In the State of the Nation address, President Ramaphosa indicated that only faster and more inclusive growth will expand employment and raise the revenues needed to support social development.

Gauteng Province, is now a home to one in four South Africans. As the economic and industrial hub of our country, we have a special role to play in promoting faster and more inclusive growth.

Today, nearly five years since the introduction of the Ten Pillar Programme of Transformation, Modernisation and Re-industrialisation, Premier Makhura is able to confirm the significant contribution Gauteng Province is making to our national economic recovery effort.

Over the past five years, Gauteng has attracted R199 billion in foreign direct investment and created 469 000 net jobs.

In the course of the coming year, R40 billion will be invested by the private sector in new and expanded industrial developments across the province.

Gauteng is now the best performing province with regard to Grade 12 results, both in terms of the absolute number of students who passed matric and the numbers who qualify to go to university.

Through Tshepo One Million, over half a million young people have benefitted from bursaries, learnerships, internships, and entrepreneurial training. This enables our most productive citizens to more easily enter the economy and use their skills and abilities to better our province and their own lives.

One of the contributors to #GPBudget 2019, Priscilla Motsoane from Katlehong says:

“When I finished my studies I was miserable after spending a year looking for work. But now I have an internship linked to through the Yes programme. So I think Gauteng must continue with initiatives such as Tshepo One Million. As far as I know this the only big provincial youth initiative that has been able to assist a lot of young people find job placement or use their energies to start business. So I say YES to Tshepo One Million”.

Nadia Nagiah from Randfontein says:

“My brother was placed through this project and I have seen a lot of changes in his outlook on life. He is motivated, believes in achieving his dreams. Before he was stressed, without direction after finishing his studies at UJ because he was struggling to find a job”.

Over the past five years, we have invested R53 billion in infrastructure, building schools, clinics, hospitals, libraries, roads, public transport, broadband and industrial parks. This has massive social and economic benefits for the people and the economy of our province.

The success of our Welfare-to-work programme has far exceeded our expectations with 36 000 young mothers who used to be dependent on the child support grant now self-employed through training and skills development.

Over the past five years, Gauteng has spent R 74 billion, on procuring goods and services from businesses owned by historically disadvantaged individuals. This includes procuring twenty billion rands' worth of goods and services from Women owned enterprises and nine billion from Youth owned businesses.

While the Provincial Government and our citizens do all in our power to fulfill our special responsibility to grow the provincial economy, we also face increasing demands on our provincial finances.

Our provincial population has increased to 14.7 million (Statistics South Africa: Mid-Year Estimates, 2018). Our public health system serves 20 million healthcare users per annum and our education system now has 2.3 million learners.

A combination of improved own revenue collection, a more creative approach to off-budget financing, and tight financial management has enabled us to meet the ever-growing demand for public services.

In 2014 we took a conscious decision to increase provincial revenue. Together with our sister departments we set out to eliminate loopholes in collection mechanisms and promote operational efficiency.

Every year during the five-year term, we surpassed our annual revenue targets and to date we have collected over R20 billion in own revenue.

This is the highest amount raised by any provincial government and goes a long way to explaining why we have managed to keep the province's finances afloat.

These resources have been particularly important in keeping teachers, social workers, nurses and doctors in our frontline facilities. Consequently, we have been able to protect citizens from cuts in health, education and social services.

Five years ago, we also took a decision to build the capacity of our Infrastructure Finance Agency to develop a project pipeline for alternative and blended financing solutions.

As we speak, the West Rand Logistics Hub and Jewelry Manufacturing Precinct are in phase-one construction and approval has been received to conclude the PPP agreement with the developers of two buildings at the Tshwane Innovation Hub that will incubate innovation and smart industries.

Gifa's project pipeline now has more than 20 projects which include the Kopanong Precinct and the Gauteng Schools Projects.

National Treasury has indicated it has already begun drafting legislation to support the new Infrastructure Fund announced by President Ramaphosa last year.

We are told this fund will offer a range of blended-finance solutions for infrastructure projects ready for implementation. It is our belief that the Gifa project pipeline will place Gauteng in an advantageous position to approach the fund for support once work on the regulatory environment is completed.

We spoke earlier of Gauteng's significant track record of infrastructure delivery over the past five years that has made a considerable contribution to our economic and job creation objectives.

Provincial Government's investment in infrastructure is estimated to have added R41 billion to the provincial economy over the last four and a half years, created or sustained 265 000 jobs and created 499 000 public works opportunities.

Another contributor to our #GPBudget 2019, Peter Kobue from Mayfair says:

“This province has put a lot of effort in infrastructure development, building roads, clinics and schools. I want to see this work continue in future because infrastructure is important to economic growth and job creation.”

This achievement would not have been made possible without significant management reform and initiative, known as the Infrastructure Delivery Management System (IDMS), that has allowed us to average a 97% spend on our infrastructure budgets.

Our unrelenting policy of only funding shovel ready projects has paid off, particularly in the departments of Transport and Education.

The Department of Transport has delivered 365.7 km of road rehabilitations, 100 kilometres of which have been upgraded from single to dual carriageways in the last 5 years.

The Department of Education has built 52 new schools in the last 5 years.

Honourable Members, our activist treasury remains on track in its quest to restore public confidence in our public procurement system and promote open and clean government across the province.

Our innovative Open Tender system has been rolled out in all departments and six entities. To date, over 80 projects with a collective value of about R18 billion have been adjudicated in public. This process has enhanced transparency in government and created significant awareness about public procurement and accountability in decision making.

Treasury received a number of positive comments about the role the Open Tender Adjudication process is playing in promoting clean governance. Mr Lucas Mabena from Bronkhorstspuit told us:

” the Open Tender system is one of the best initiatives that has been introduced by government to stop corruption in tenders. This project must continue and also introduce it nationally. As a supplier within Gauteng, I attended a few public adjudications and saw for myself how bids discussed and decisions on who won etc. are taken”

I am happy to report that the Bill which will enshrine our Open Tender system in law, is now before our Finance Committee. We hope Madam Speaker, that this house will pass this bill into law before we rise in March.

I am sure you will all agree Honourable members, that we have significantly improved provincial financial management and compliance. This has resulted in 65% clean audits and a hundred percent unqualified audits for all departments and entities for three years in a row!

I have no doubt that the significant progress we have achieved in this term in establishing a culture of transparency, public accountability and credible financial controls can, if sustained in the next term, ensure the Provincial Government achieves its target of 100% clean audits.

We are also happy to report to this house, that all Gauteng municipalities where audits are complete, have received unqualified audits, also for the third year in a row. One municipal audit is outstanding, and Midvaal must be congratulated for sustaining its clean audit for 5 years in a row.

Honourable members in the State of the Province Address Premier Makhura described Gauteng as:

“the pioneer, laboratory and leader in the revitalisation and transformation of township enterprises into sustainable and job creating businesses”

Honourable members, I am sure our collective experience tells us that the township economy is, indeed, an idea whose time has arrived.

Over the past five years the Gauteng Provincial Government has procured goods and services to the value of R22 billion from township entrepreneurs.

We have registered 32 616 township businesses many from as far afield as Limpopo, Mpumalanga and Free State on the Gauteng SAP System which is linked to the central supplier database. Of the Gauteng based township enterprises, we have used 7 192 in the provincial supply chain.

Two and a half thousand Gauteng-based township enterprises have received training through our supplier development programme since 2014.

Our efforts in this regard have not gone unnoticed by Gauteng residents. Mathebe Mathebula from Mamelodi says:

“I own Dikakarapa Construction which was established in 2010 My company is involved in general maintenance work, and one day I received a call from an agent of the South African Supplier Diversity Agency. They invited me to join a supplier development programme that they were involved in with the Gauteng Government. Since then we have improved as a company in areas such as corporate governance and financial management.

The focus of Gauteng Government has been how to ensure that our companies are sustainable, and we hope that in the next few months we will get other projects from the private sector”.

Martha Sibeko from Pretoria says:

“When I started my cleaning company four years ago, I did not understand how to source government work. One day a government official from DED told me about the Weekly Tender Workshops that take place at 75 Fox. I attended several times for two months. Now I understand how the process works and the attendance was free. So, government is working to support particularly us as small businesses from townships”.

In an effort to ensure that our procurement opportunities do not undermine the cash flow stability of township and other enterprises, Gauteng has made significant strides in paying our suppliers on time. One of the successful programmes that helped us achieve this has been our e-invoicing application which won a Bronze Award at the Premier’s Service Excellence Award last week.

Johan Kruger from Mayville commented on-line that:

“Payment of our invoices has improved since we decided to register for e-invoicing. I think that is the way to go for government service providers so that we can track our invoices and see whether officials are making sure that they are paid. If we as small businesses get paid on time we will grow and create jobs for more people”.

In compliance with Public Finance Management Act and as a direct response to supporting small enterprises, most of our departments now pay 92 % of their invoices within 15 days.

The Department of Health now pays 68% of its invoices within 30 days and makes an effort to ensure small enterprises are prioritised.

Honourable members, this year we are taking our Township Economic Revitalisation Strategy one step further with the creation of the Provincial Small and Micro-Enterprise Clearing House.

This partnership between the Gauteng Government, the private sector and the University of Johannesburg links township entrepreneurs to those who want to buy their goods and services and to those who want to fund and support such partnerships.

It is designed not only to develop SMMEs in their own right, but also to link the support of the Youth Employment Service (YES) so that township enterprises can host interns from Tshepo 1Million partnership.

The programme will be piloted in Tembisa for the first six months of this year and then be upscaled in the second half of the year.

The People's Budget to Grow Gauteng

Honourable Members I now turn to the Budget itself. This Gauteng People's Budget serves as a bridge between the 5th and the 6th Administrations. It concludes government programmes and projects of this term, whilst being mindful of new priorities that will be addressed by a future administration.

This year, we are appropriating R132.4 billion which grows to R150.3 billion in the outer year of the MTEF. This represents a 9 per cent annualized growth rate over the MTEF.

National transfers in the form of the Provincial Equitable Share and Conditional Grants amount to R102 billion and R23 billion respectively. Provincial own revenue amounts to R 6.3 billion and represents 5 per cent of our budget.

Transform our economy to serve all our people and create work for those who need it most

The Department of Economic Development continues to lead our drive for economic transformation and recovery. The budget for the department in 2019/20 is R1.6 billion.

The Department has earmarked funds towards the following programme:

- R26 million for the upgrading of township hubs/industrial parks;
- R18.2million to implement the Ekasi Lab programme which now includes the incubation of 80 township IT entrepreneurs;

The Department of e-Government receives R1.4 billion this year. Key programmes for funding include:

- The Broadband network; and
- The platform for common GCR e-Services that are required for the GCR connected government.

Honourable members we are all aware that in recent times progress on the Broadband network has been constrained by fiscal challenges.

Today I am happy to share with this house that the Executive Council has in principle approved a co-ownership and revenue sharing model.

Currently, the Provincial Government, SITA, SENTECH and Broadband Infracore (BBI) are developing a collaboration model that could see GBN integrating into the National Broadband Network.

Our aim, through collaboration and co-ownership, is to ensure outstanding provincial government facilities are connected and citizens benefit from ease of access to available e-services.

Improve our education system and prioritize youth development

Our allocation to the Department of Education, Gauteng's Best

Stepping up the fight against crime, corruption and state capture

When we took office in 2014, under the leadership of the honourable Premier, we promised the people of Gauteng that good governance will be at the centre of what we do. We promised that corruption will not be tolerated.

In an effort to tackle and fight against corruption in the province, the Office of the Premier has established the Integrity Management Unit.

To achieve this, OoP working in collaboration with all GPG departments and the Special Investigating Unit has developed four pillar strategy which includes prevention, detection, building investigative capacity and ensuring we take disciplinary and where necessary lay criminal or civil cases.

In total we have allocated R291 million to promoting clean and effective government in 2019/20 it includes:

- R23 million for integrity management in the Office of the Premier;

In the state of the Province Address Premier Makhura welcomed the new Gauteng Police Commissioner Lieutenant General Elias Mawela emphasising his distinguished career as a skilful and dedicated crime buster.

He also welcomed the deployment of high-ranking police officers and shifting of resources to clusters and police stations that have a high crime rate.

Improve the conditions of life for all South Africans especially those living in poor communities

Honourable members, as a government, we remain on the side of the most vulnerable in our society. Eighty one percent of the

Acknowledgements

As I move towards the end of this address, I would like to thank Gauteng's citizens for giving me the opportunity to serve through my election to this House, in different capacities over the past twenty-five years.

To Premier Makhura I express my gratitude for your steadfast leadership and enduring example of humble service and commitment to improving the lives of Gauteng's people.

I thank my fellow MECs and the MMCs for Finance for all your co-operation and collegial support over the last five years.

Appreciation also goes to you Hon Speaker, the Chief Whip, Honourable Khumalo and all Honourable members of this house for holding us to your high standards of public accountability.

Allow me to say a special word of thanks to Ms. Nomfundo Tshabalala and Team Treasury for their diligent management of our provincial finances. I am sure you all agree Honourable Members that we are indeed blessed to have such dedicated and effective public servants.

And lastly, allow me a personal word of thanks to my family: Geeta, Kwanda and Sean, who spent their babyhood in this Legislature, and who now hold me to account in that robust and fearless way of Gauteng's energetic youth.

Conclusion

Honourable members I want to conclude today with a quote from the Barak Obama Nelson Mandela Lecture 2018, delivered here in Johannesburg on 18 July last year.

I have chosen this quote because it speaks to this moment in our history. A moment when we need, all of us, to stand up and support President Ramaphosa's vision of growth and renewal for our country.

A vision that advances the values of our Constitution and once again places at the center of our agenda the needs of the poor, the unemployed, the marginalized and the disposed.

It is a vision we will only achieve if each and every one of us in our different ways and locations works to make it a reality.

Former President Barak Obama said, and I quote:

“what we need right now, we don't just need one leader, we don't just need one inspiration, what we badly need right now is that collective spirit. And, I know that those young people, those hope carriers are gathering around the world.

Because history shows that whenever progress is threatened, and the things we care about most are in question, we should heed the words of Robert Kennedy – spoken here in South Africa, he said, “Our answer is the world’s hope: it is to rely on youth. It’s to rely on the spirit of the young.”

So, young people, who are in the audience, who are listening, my message to you is simple, keep believing, keep marching, keep building, keep raising your voice. Every generation has the opportunity to remake the world. Mandela said, “Young people are capable, when aroused, of bringing down the towers of oppression and raise the banners of freedom.” Now is a good time to be aroused. Now is a good time to be fired up.

And, for those of us who care about the legacy that we honor here today – about equality and dignity and democracy and solidarity and kindness, those of us who remain young at heart, if not in body – we have an obligation to help our youth succeed”.

Honourable members may the Gauteng Spirit of Eternal Optimism, Resilience and Excellence move our province and our country ever forward!

I salute you all!

Thank you
